SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. – April 17, 2018 – Interbike, the largest bicycle industry trade show in North America, today announced the initial wave of content and schedule for the IBD Summit at Interbike retail education track at Interbike 2018. This new track brings the same type of high-level speaker that the IBD Summit was known for to the Interbike audience at no charge.

“As part of our shift to a new location, we are reinventing much of the educational content to ensure that these sessions are timely and curated specifically for our audience,” said Pat Hus, Vice President of Interbike. “We consulted with our Retailer Advisory Board, the NBDA and many others on the topics, and are confident that the sessions will be impactful for attendees. Our investment in education has grown substantially, and we encourage the IBD community to review the sessions and attend.”

Risha Grant, Founder & CEO of Risha Grant LLC, an award-winning diversity consulting and communications firm, will speak with retailers about marketing to a diverse and inclusive audience.

Melanie DePaoli, an author and powerful national speaker on topics about brand building, customer experience, and social media, will present her “Mastering the Social Media Experience” program for independent bicycle retailers.

Richard Hadden, a leadership and management consultant who focuses on creating great places to work will present a session titled, “How to Attract, Hire and Retain the Best Employees.”

David Mead is part of global, best-selling author Simon Sinek’s Start With Why organization, specializing in organizational culture and leadership. David will present two sessions at Interbike 2018: Start With Why, followed by Leaders Eat Last – both of which will inspire the audience to take action and build a strong culture within their organization.
