Tern's Innovative Solution for Packing Bikes for Airline Travel

Tern FlightSuit™ turns off-the-shelf suitcase into a cost-effective alternative to a dedicated bike travel case

TAIPEI, TAIWAN –The FlightSuit of Tern, urban transport specialist, includes a set of high-quality protective covers for packing Tern bikes into a standard-sized suitcase for airline travel.

“For many, the idea of bringing a bike on vacation is heaven, but can be daunting,” says Dwight Jurling, Director Global Marketing at Tern. “Dedicated cases are expensive, often incur oversize baggage charges, and take up valuable storage space when not in use. The Tern FlightSuit eliminates these concerns by letting travelers turn a normal suitcase into a bike travel case when one is needed.”

The Tern FlightSuit, together with off-the-shelf suitcase such as the Samsonite Aeris Comfort Spinner 82 (31”), forms a rugged and cost-effective option for traveling with a Tern bike. Every 20” wheel Tern bicycle fit this airline legal suitcase. Depending on the bike model some accessory parts have to be disassembled.

The 9-piece Tern FlightSuit-Kit includes a large suitcase pad plus custom protectors for the bike’s seatpost, handlepost, pedals and dropouts. Pads are made of durable 240D nylon bonded with 5 mm, dual-layer padding, to protect the bike during transit. Clever detail - the instructions are printed right on the suitcase pad and show how to fit the bike into the suitcase.

The FlightSuit- Kit can also be used with Tern 24" wheel bikes with larger dimension suitcases. Suitcases are sold separately and are not included with the FlightSuit.

Pricing & Availability

The Tern FlightSuit is now available at a MSRP of US$75 / €75.00 through the worldwide network of Tern dealers and from the Tern Store at www.premiumbikegear.com.
