BioLogic Launches Announces Revue Rechargeable Safety Lights

Compact LEDs add lights to any bike without the worry of batteries

Taipei, Taiwan – March 3, 2015 — BioLogic, a specialist in urban cycling gear, today announced the release of BioLogic Revue USB rechargeable safety lights, compact and bright front and rear LED cycle safety lights.

“We’re always on the hunt for ways to reduce waste,” said Eric Mah, BioLogic brand manager. “Revue lights are bright and simple to use, but most importantly, they free riders from the cycle of buying and disposing of batteries.”

Revue lights offer a bright 40 lumens front and 15 lumens rear with 25 hours of illumination in flashing mode, 6 hours in low steady and 3 hours in bright steady mode. The lights recharge in 2.5 hours from any USB port and include a USB to micro USB cable.

The lights feature a precision machined aluminum body with water resistant seals for use in all types of weather. They operate by clicking the front lens, offering simple no-view operation for stepping through available modes. A flexible mounting strap allows easy placement on handlebars, seatposts, helmets, and bags. Revue USB rechargeable lights have an MSRP of US$19.95 / €19.95 each. They are available through BioLogic dealers worldwide and www.premiumbikegear.com. BioLogic will show the Revue lights at Taipei Cycle Show 2015 at booth M1019a.
